

A communication device which comprises transfer rate estimation means for estimating transfer rate of media data other than digital audio data before transmission, data amount controlling means for controlling data amount of the digital audio data to be transmitted in accordance with the transfer rate estimated by said transfer rate estimation means, and transmission means for transmitting the audio data whose data amount is controlled by said data amount controlling means and the media data other than the audio data.